PARENT POWER FLYER

I do try to avoid promoting and advertising products and services in school newsletters, however, on this occasion I would like to make an exception. The Parent Power flyer sent home today offers parents a practical solution to significantly enhance your family's cyber safety.

I will not go into the details of the device as I am sure that the flyer will direct you to links that can answer all your questions. However, I will say from experience, parents are often shocked, alarmed and distressed when they discover that their child has somehow come into contact with inappropriate material on the internet. It would be naive to suggest that, as parents, we are and will always be, aware of what our children see and do while on the internet.

The device promoted in the flyer may assist you in tackling this very challenging issue.
